Community Capital Bancshares and AB&T National Bank Announce Addition to Boards of Directors

Albany, GA – Jim Bacon was recently named to the boards of directors for Community Capital Bancshares, Inc. and its subsidiary AB&T National Bank.

A native of Albany and graduate of Westover High School, Jim attended the University of Georgia where he received a bachelor's degree in accounting. He is a licensed certified public accountant (CPA) and previously worked for M&M/Mars in various accounting and sales/marketing positions. He also worked with Deloitte, Haskins and Sells in both the US and overseas.

In 2000, Jim returned to Albany and was named general manager of SafeAire Heating and Cooling. He is a member of the Dougherty County Rotary Club and Warwick United Methodist Church, where he serves as coordinator for "Outdoor Boat Church." Additionally, he is a partner in Oakland Plantation, a master planned real-estate development in Lee County.

"We are so fortunate to have Jim on our board," stated Luke Flatt, president and CEO. "His vast amount of business experience, coupled with his accounting background, will be a tremendous asset to our bank and to our board of directors. His wealth of knowledge and the commitment that he brings to AB&T fit perfectly with our vision of becoming the gold standard of community banking in our area."

AB&T National Bank opened its doors in 1999 as Albany Bank & Trust and focused on providing customers with local decision-making and exceptional quality service. It is a member of the FDIC and is an Equal Housing Lender. For more information, visit www.abtgold.com
